Fort Vancouver Regional Library District
Staff Report 2025-06

TO: FVRL Board of Trustees

FROM: Jennifer Giltrop, Executive Director

DATE: 4/3/25

SUBJECT: Levy Lid Lift – Service Plan Options

The Board of Trustees considered and discussed financial trends and projections from September 2024 to January 2025, resulting in the board’s approval of Resolution 2025-01. This resolution calls for an election on August 5, 2025, requesting voter authorization for Fort Vancouver Regional Library District (FVRLibraries) to restore its regular property tax levy to $0.50 per $1,000 of taxable assessed value.

For reference, the average (mean) home value in the district in 2024 was $400,000. The cost to the taxpayer based on the average home value will be $200 per year ($16.67 per month) for library services if the levy is approved.

The purpose of the April 3, 2025 Special Board Meeting is to engage in a deeper discussion regarding the proposed service plan options that have been developed for both possible outcomes on the August 5 vote.

Aligning the Mission, Value, and Purpose of FVRLibraries to Levy Lid Lift Decisions

FVRLibraries is dedicated to lifelong learning, community engagement, and equitable resource access. The Levy Lid Lift measure on August 5 is grounded in these commitments, providing funding that sustains library services across the district. By bringing this measure to voters, FVRLibraries is prioritizing transparency and community involvement in decisions that affect library services. The proposed options outline potential effects on library operations and the district’s ability to meet community needs, helping voters make an informed decision.

When making decisions regarding potential cuts or investments, FVRLibraries carefully considers several key questions that directly relate to our mission and values:

1. Community Needs and Expectations: Each proposed decision is assessed to determine how it meets critical community needs and expectations, particularly prioritizing services patrons value most. What specific impacts will reductions have on community members across the district’s diverse region?

2. Fiscal Sustainability and Responsibility: Decisions are evaluated for financial responsibility and long-term sustainability. Can essential reserves be realistically maintained to ensure financial stability? How do proposed changes impact the library’s financial health immediately and in the long term?

3. Impact on Service Levels and Quality: Changes in staffing, hours, or resources are considered in relation to service quality and accessibility. Will adjustments significantly compromise the library's ability to meet the community's ongoing and future needs effectively?

4. Infrastructure and Facility Maintenance: Facility-related cuts are reviewed to determine whether they will compromise safety, accessibility, or long-term operational integrity. Can maintenance be responsibly delayed without creating costly future issues or negatively affecting patron experiences?

5. Strategic Growth and Innovation: Decisions are assessed for alignment with potential strategic goals for innovation and future growth. Do proposed cuts or investments enhance or hinder the capacity to adapt to community changes, demographic shifts, and technological advancements?

By consistently applying these guiding questions, FVRLibraries works to make financially sound decisions that align with the district's core values and mission, ensuring transparency and accountability.

In developing these plans, we also account for critical organizational considerations.

- FVRLibraries has two labor unions with collective bargaining agreements, which will guide any staffing reduction process should the levy fail. The specific impact on employees will only be determined after the levy results.
- FVRLibraries follows a fiscal management policy that aims to maintain a reserve balance covering 60 to 90 days of annual operating costs. This policy ensures financial stability, particularly given our revenue structure, where approximately 96% of our total annual revenue comes from property taxes, which are only substantially received twice yearly in April and October.
- Integrity of the system is considered by ensuring that no matter if the system expands or contracts, the components are allocated in a similar fashion (e.g., staffing, materials, capital outlay, supplies, etc.). You will notice this later in the pie charts for each option.

These carefully balanced considerations ensure that our decisions responsibly reflect both immediate needs and the long-term priorities of our community and the library system as a whole.

Summary of Options

The discussion with the Board of Trustees will illuminate if further options need to be presented and/or current options revised. The goal is to finalize and adopt one option for each potential scenario at the April 21 meeting.

It is important to note that the financial forecasts use the most current data available, but actual results and budget expenses may vary over time. To ensure library services align with community needs, FVRLibraries will launch a strategic planning process this spring, inviting public input to help shape future library hours and services. Community feedback will play a key role in determining how service hours are structured based on available funding.

Regular Board of Trustees Meeting: Monday, April 21 at 6 p.m. at the Washougal Community Library. At this meeting, staff will seek approval on the direction for each of the outcomes of the August 5 vote, providing a detailed direction with either result. This approval will inform FVRLibraries’ Information Campaign, scheduled to launch in late April.

Levy Lid Lift Information & Engagement Strategy

Report to the Board of Trustees | April 2025

What is an Information Campaign?

An information-only campaign provides facts—what the levy is, how property tax funding works, and what happens if the levy passes or fails. It is intended to provide voters with information so they can make an informed decision.

Three Pillars of an Information Campaign

The levy

What voters are being asked to decide on

Library funding

How property taxes sustain library services

Potential outcomes

What will happen if the levy passes or fails

Providing Facts to Support Informed Decisions

This information campaign will aim to ensure every voter understands what the levy supports—and what is at stake—so they can make an informed decision based on facts and lived experience. This information campaign will be designed to help the public understand a levy lid lift, what it would fund, and why it matters. It will be informational and fully compliant with RCW 42.17A.555.

Two major initiatives—the 75th Anniversary and the Strategic & Facilities Master Planning processes—also bolster the campaign, providing natural opportunities to share levy-related information through celebratory events, strategic messaging, and summer learning activities.

Who We're Talking To: Meeting People Where They Are

FVRLibraries serves a broad and dynamic region, ranging from rural bookmobile routes to vibrant city branches to our 24/7 online digital branch (website). Our patrons include preschoolers discovering stories, teens exploring research tools, caregivers looking for parenting resources, job seekers accessing résumé help, and families creating new traditions—whether in welcoming library spaces or through virtual programs and e-resources. Across formats, FVRLibraries connects people with what they need to learn, grow, and thrive.

National data shows this is a widespread pattern:

- 54% of people aged 13-40 visited physical libraries within the past year, and 37% said they had used their library's digital collection.¹
- 92% of respondents say libraries are safe spaces for their children.²
- Between 2022 and 2023, the average number of room reservations at libraries increased by 52%, surpassing pre-pandemic 2019 levels by 18%.³
- A 2024 economic study found that capital investments in libraries lead to higher usage and measurable improvements in literacy scores in surrounding schools.⁴

And here's what it looks like locally in 2024:

- 1.37 million visits to FVRLibraries' physical branches
- 1.89 million visits to FVRLibraries' digital branch (website)
- 32,000 new cards issued
- 5,200 programs hosted, with nearly 99,000 attendees
- 450,000 Wi-Fi sessions and 149,000 public computer logins
- 3.3 million items circulated, including 1.6 million digital checkouts

To put that in perspective:

- More people visited FVRLibraries than attended 66 sold-out Portland Trail Blazers games.
- In one year, FVRLibraries issued enough new library cards to account for more than all the students in Vancouver Public Schools, Woodland School District, Goldendale School District, and Skamania School District combined.
- We hosted enough program attendees to equal every person in Woodland, Ridgefield, and La Center coming to a library event three times.
- Patrons logged on to Wi-Fi more than twice as many times as there are people in Vancouver.

And we did it all with our Vision: Everyone in our communities is valued and empowered to succeed.

What That Looks Like in Real Life

- In Woodland, the new library welcomed over 600 visitors on opening day. Weekly storytimes now draw more than 70 people, and seniors from a nearby care center described their first visit to the new space as “fun” and “freeing.”
- In Goldendale, the staff brought nearly 80 books to Centerville School. A quiet student visiting the Bookmobile became engaged when staff started reading aloud—one small moment that built trust and connection.

⁴ Gilpin, Gregory, Ezra Karger and Peter Nencka. 2024. "The Returns to Public Library Investment." American Economic Journal: Economic Policy

- In Vancouver, over 200 people attended a Winter Resource Fair co-hosted by the library and 20+ local organizations. They came for housing help, job support, healthcare info, and connection.
- In Stevenson, the Adult Book Group grew so much that a second group, focused on young adult literature, was launched at the request of older adults eager to understand new stories and perspectives.
- Nearly 100 people attended the annual Gingerbread House event in La Center. A young family told staff they planned to make it a tradition because it was fun, free, and welcoming.

What Unites These Moments

At the heart of this information campaign are shared public values:

- Access to tools and information
- Ease of entry—no membership fee, no prerequisites
- Respectful service, delivered with care and responsiveness
- Public trust, built through transparency, consistency, and accountability

Libraries are among the most widely trusted institutions in the country, because they reflect the communities they serve and are open to all.

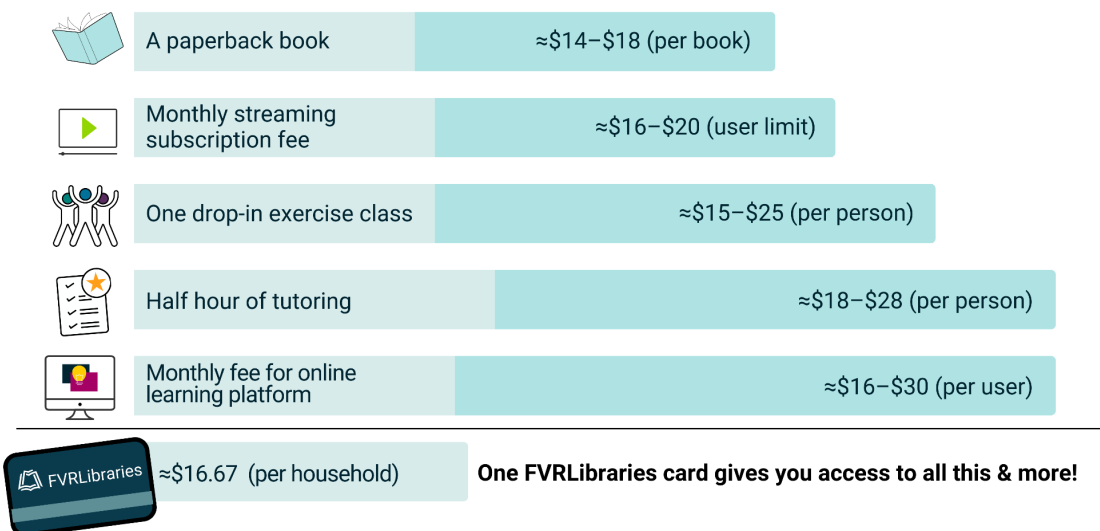

Framing the 2025 Levy Lid Lift

Fort Vancouver Regional Libraries (FVRLibraries) relies on property taxes for about 96% of its operating budget. Due to Washington State law limits, there is a 1% limit on the amount an individual taxing district can increase the property tax levy (the total amount of taxes collected) each year. A levy lid lift returns the decision to voters, allowing them to restore the levy rate and resulting funding to a sustainable level.

On August 5, 2025, district voters will decide whether to restore the levy rate to $0.50 per $1,000 of assessed value—the same rate approved in 2010. For a $400,000 home (2024 average home value in FVRL District), that’s just $16.67 per month.

What Does $16.67/Month Really Mean?

Here’s how the monthly dollar amount compares to everyday costs—and what the library provides in return.

At FVRLibraries, this monthly support provides access to hundreds of thousands of books, various programs, online tutoring, learning platforms, public computers, Wi-Fi, and vital community services and spaces—available to everyone in the district, all year long.

Public Libraries: Research + Real-World Impact

Public libraries like FVRLibraries do more than offer books—they drive real outcomes in education, wellness, and economic opportunity.

What the Research Shows

- 88% of patrons say the library supports personal growth
- 74% say it helps them cope with life's challenges
(IFLA Well-being Study, 2024)
- Library capital investments lead to:
 - +15% in children's library visits
 - Higher reading scores in surrounding school districts
(American Economic Journal: Economic Policy, 2024)
 - Every $1 invested in libraries returns $4–$5 in community value
(IMLS; Seattle Public Library Foundation, 2023)

What That Looks Like Locally

- A senior learning to video chat with family during a tech help session
- A rural resident checking out books and receiving tax forms at a Bookmobile stop
- A teen finding a safe, welcoming space to relax and connect with friends
- A young professional developing their skills via online learning platforms that help them get their next job

From Strategy to Action: How We Deliver This Information Campaign

The Levy Lid Lift information campaign will be integrated with two major library-wide efforts: The 75th Anniversary, which brings visibility, joy, and history to the community, and the Strategic & Facilities Master Planning processes, which chart the next five and ten years, respectively, of growth and investment. Both initiatives help connect the dots for patrons—showing where we've been, where we're going, and what sustained public support makes possible.

How the 75th Anniversary Strengthens the Campaign

The 75th anniversary, which will last throughout 2025, gives us a powerful platform to highlight how the library has grown, adapted, and supported communities across generations.

This celebration:

- Increases community visibility and goodwill
- Reinforces the value of sustained public investment
- Offers an opportunity for staff to talk about the library's evolution, reach, and role
- Provides a joyful and low-pressure entry point for patrons to reconnect with services

How the Strategic Plan and Facilities Master Plan Come to Life

The Strategic Plan and Facilities Master Plan will outline FVRLibraries' roadmap for the next five and ten years. These plans will guide internal decisions and serve as tools for engaging the public in shaping the library district's future.

The planning process will encourage the following engagement:

- Invite the public to share their values, ideas, and feedback to help shape future priorities and services.
- Ground conversations in real, community-driven goals—like improving access, creating more innovative spaces, and strengthening library services.
- Help community members connect long-term goals with the resources and support needed to achieve them.

Tactical Overview: How We Reach the Public

This is an information-only campaign, and all engagement channels are designed to provide clear access to factual information.

1. Passive Communication Through Collateral

Printed and digital materials will be available in library spaces and at outreach events to explain the levy lid lift—what it is, what it would fund, and what changes depending on the outcome.

Materials include:

- Bilingual flyers and handouts
- Posters and signs with QR codes
- Info slips in newsletters and program materials
“Did You Know?” highlights tied to the Strategic Plan

Staff will not advocate or share personal opinions. These materials are intended to support fact-based information and will be freely available for patrons and partners to use. The approach is intentionally passive—information is accessible, not pushed.

Where will these collateral pieces be available?

Branches & bookmobiles

Outreach events such as community fairs & farmer's markets

Strategic plan forums & partner gatherings

Partner organizations (physical & digital)

...and more to be identified

2. Strategic Leadership Visibility at Events

Select library leadership will discuss the levy and other initiatives during arranged speaking engagements. This small group of senior leaders may also address the media and make public statements regarding the levy.

3. Additional Promotional Channels

While branch and event materials are a core tactic, this campaign will also include:

- A dedicated informational webpage with FAQs and levy background
- Press releases and earned media outreach to ensure local coverage
- Social media messaging with educational posts and links to resources
- Paid media (e.g., TV, radio, print) to boost awareness of the library being on the ballot
- Direct mail to targeted areas to help reach households that other methods may miss

Together, these efforts create a broad, accessible information landscape, allowing every community member to engage with the topic in the way that works best for them.

Closing Thoughts: Confidence Through Clarity

FVRLibraries has long been a trusted source of information, and this campaign reflects that same commitment. Our goal is to ensure everyone can access clear, factual information about the upcoming levy lid lift and its implications for the library's future.

We are approaching this work with transparency, care, and consistency:

- Sharing facts about library funding and long-term planning
- Offering resources in print, online, and at events
- Supporting staff with guidance and tools to respond legally and confidently
- Meeting people where they are—in familiar places, at trusted times, with helpful information

As with every service we provide, we aim to inform, include, and empower.
